If you didn't make our Spring Kids Fest in Madison Square Park this past Saturday, then you don't know what you missed...but we're happy to show you! The weather was gorgeous and kids and parents seemed to be having a fantastic time listening to music, watching magic, trying yoga poses and sampling free eats. (We won't lie: The complimentary cotton candy was a serious hit with all ages—in fact, a lot of childless folks waited patiently to get their hands on the sticky pink snack!) Our next kids fest will take place sometime in October. Until then, click through our slide show of fabulous photos by Marc Whalen from this month's edition.
